

by Rosalind Adler

A big-hearted comedy about feeling flawed

King's Head Theatre

Rosalind Adler presents

"Terrific. Subtle, funny, moving and truthful"
Maria Friedman

Three lost and lonely women – retired lecturer SAL, trophy wife ANNIE and RHONA, an angry poet – are drawn to the charismatic leader of a new 'Spiritual Hub' in west London. But they're heading towards a deadly whirlpool.

Their stories – and those of the men they love – begin to interweave. As they come close to being smashed on the rocks they have to pull together to get out of harm's way.

Damaged Goods (formerly The Hub) was showcased at Soho Theatre and Leicester Square Theatre.

Richard Heap and Rosalind Adler play all six characters in this one-act play.

"wonderfully funny and deeply touching"
Christopher Logan

"Funny, insightful and moving"
Sally Sheringham

part of #Playmill 2018 festival of new writing

www.rosadler.com

Director
Kirsty Bennett

Co-Producer
Sarah Lawrie

King's Head Theatre

Mon 16, Tue 17 and Wed 18 Jul
at 6.30 pm

Tickets £10

0207 226 8561
kingsheadtheatre.com

 @KingsHeadThtr

115 Upper St. Islington N1 1QN